Ordering

For best availability for your desired ship, please order early. Shipment dates cannot be altered after November 1st. 2025

Our packing process begins on November 1st, so no changes to your order can be made after this date. Although we do accept orders after this deadline, the selection will be more limited and some varieties will be unavailable.

An acknowledgment will be mailed to you as soon as we have processed your order. All orders are subject to crop conditions. We have a long growing season and many unforeseen problems may occur which can damage crops and thereby reduce the amount of plants available. Every effort is made to fulfill orders, but the availability of a particular variety cannot always be guaranteed until we begin shipping. Therefore, we may have to cancel some items from your order at a later date.

Please check your orderform for multiple quantities for all products.

Pot tags

For all catalogue items, pot tags are only shipped upon request.

You can request tags for your complete order by checking the relevant box on the order form. Please review the tag costs on your order form. Tags will be attached to the bags with plants.

For the following items the tag multiple is one tag per three corms. Convallaria majalis, Crocosmia and Liatris (except for Kobold and Cobalus).

Each tag includes full English descriptive information and notes on care and usage.

Let's pollinate the planet together.

Bees, butterflies, and other pollinators play a crucial role in ecosystems, agriculture, and the broader environment. Their importance stems from their role in the pollination process, which is essential for the reproduction of many plant species.

By assisting in the reproduction of plants through pollination, bees and butterflies support the growth of a wide variety of plants, which in turn increases biodiversity. This biodiversity is essential for healthy ecosystems that support a wide range of life forms, including humans.

Discover the highlights from our range and the unique characteristics of each of these beautiful plants. Our selection is carefully compiled to offer not only an aesthetic addition to gardens but also to support the biodiversity and well-being of pollinators such as bees and butterflies.

Echinacea

Echinacea is known for its striking, large, daisy-like flowers in shades of purple, pink, yellow, and white and is a must-have for any sun-loving garden. This plant is not only loved by pollinators but also has medicinal properties.

Phlox

Phlox offers a variety of colours and is known for its rich bloom and delightful fragrance. Perfect for borders and as a cut flower.

Liatris

With its unique blooming habit, where purple flowers bloom from top to bottom, Liatris offers a striking vertical accent in the garden. It is a drought-tolerant plant that attracts butterflies.

Nepeta

Nepeta is beloved for its relaxing scent and lavender-blue flowers. It is a low-maintenance, drought-tolerant plant that attracts bees and butterflies while deterring deer and rabbits.

Coreopsis

Coreopsis is known for its vibrant, gold, orange, red, and bi-coloured flowers and is an excellent choice for a sunny border. It is a low-maintenance, drought-tolerant plant that blooms for a long period.

Allium

Allium is known for its impressive spherical flowers that stand tall on stems above the foliage. The plant offers a spectacular show in late spring or summer and attracts pollinators while being a deterrent to rodents.

Each of these plants brings its own charm and benefits to the garden, whether you're looking for colour, fragrance, or support of the local ecosystem. By adding these species to your range, you offer customers not only beautiful plants but also contribute to a healthier, more biodiverse garden environment.

Quick facts

- Early spring flowering perennial
- Iris germanica is known as bearded Iris, flowers come in all colours
- German Iris plants prefer a full sun location but will bloom in light shade as well
- Too much shade and overcrowding are the most common reasons when Irises won't bloom

Upon Arrival

- Open all boxes and bags immediately upon receipt
- Let the rhizomes thaw out slowly
- Check the condition of the roots in the boxes
- If you notice any damage, please contact your sales rep within 7 days

Planting

- Best time for planting is early spring and fall
- Check rhizomes before planting and discard any soft rhizomes
- Best temperature to start cultivation: 35-55F / 2-12C°
- Plant rhizomes in a well-draining soil
- Top of the rhizome has to be visible after planting
- Irises should be fertilized in early spring about 6 to 8 weeks before bloom, and again after the blooms are gone

Watering

- First light watering after the plant has just sprouted
- During growth, water as needed (the soil should not be too dry or too wet)
- Overwatering, or allowing the soil to get soggy, can cause root rot

Ongoing care

- Use your grower skills to closely monitor the growing
- Bearded Iris (Iris germanica) is relatively carefree
- Remove the flower stalk after the last flower fades to stimulate plant growth

Prevention and protection

- Iris diseases can be caused by fungi, bacteria or viruses
- The fungi causing rhizome rots are generally found in the soil
- Rust is a wet weather, fungal disease
- Remove and dispose of all leaf debris at the end of the year

Planting

- Best time for planting is (early) spring

- Planting a shrub is quick and easy, but worth doing carefully to ensure your plant settles in well
- Best temperature to start cultivation: 60-68F / 15-20C°
- Start fertilizing after the root system is well developed

Watering

- First watering after planting
- Shrubs in containers need regular watering over the summer

Ongoing care

- Use your grower skills to closely monitor the growing
- Shrubs in containers need fertilizing from spring until late summer
- Removing spent flowers encourages further flowers, but is not essential and often not practical on large shrubs

Pruning

- Pruning can keep shrubs healthy, productive and attractive, as well as keep them compact.
- Don't get worried about pruning; Shoots that are growing in unwanted directions can also be pruned out

Prevention and protection

- Shrubs are usually very robust garden plants and if grown in conditions that suit their needs, they should be relatively trouble-free
- Positioning the shrub too deep in the soil can lead to stem rotting and shrub failure
- Poorly drained or waterlogged soil could kill your shrubs
- Remove and dispose of all leaf debris at the end of the year

Flower Bulbs for landscape design: add an extra dimension to your project

Incorporating spring and summer flowering bulbs into landscape projects adds an extra dimension to the environment. With a wide range of bulbs available, we offer variety in shapes, scents, and colours, creating a lasting enchantment unattainable by many summer annuals.

Well-being enhancer

The colourful and varied appearance of flower bulbs in public spaces brings joy to cyclists, walkers, and drivers. Studies have shown that "green" improves the health and well-being of the community, as well as livability. From flower bulbs to trees, all forms of greenery make positive contributions. Additionally, a rich and diverse green offering increases the likelihood of public space usage and encourages social interaction.

Biodiversity booster

Various types of flower bulbs are crucial as food sources, providing nectar and pollen to bees, butterflies, and bumblebees. Especially in early spring, it is the early-flowering bulbs that are important for the initial feeding of insects. Greater diversity and application of suitable flower bulbs significantly increase biodiversity.

Landscape architecture

Applying flower bulbs requires thoughtful consideration in landscape design. Design areas so that woody ornamentals capture attention when the bulbs are not yet in bloom. Popular applications include: borders, ground covers, rock gardens, and especially in pots and hanging baskets. Most summer-flowering bulbs are not suitable for naturalization because they do not survive the winter, with the lily as a notable exception.

Creating dynamic combinations

Combining flower bulbs with perennials can create a dynamic and visually appealing landscape. Consider flowering periods, colour harmony, and the specific requirements of each species when designing your bulb and perennial combinations.

Discover our specially curated collections for landscape design

We have carefully assembled a number of collections to assist you in selecting the perfect addition for your landscape design.

Within our range, you will find two special collections specifically aimed at attracting butterflies and bees, thereby contributing to the biodiversity of your project. These ecologically responsible choices not only help in creating a visually appealing environment but also actively support our crucial insect life.

Each collection is packed per species in a bag and collected in a carton box.
